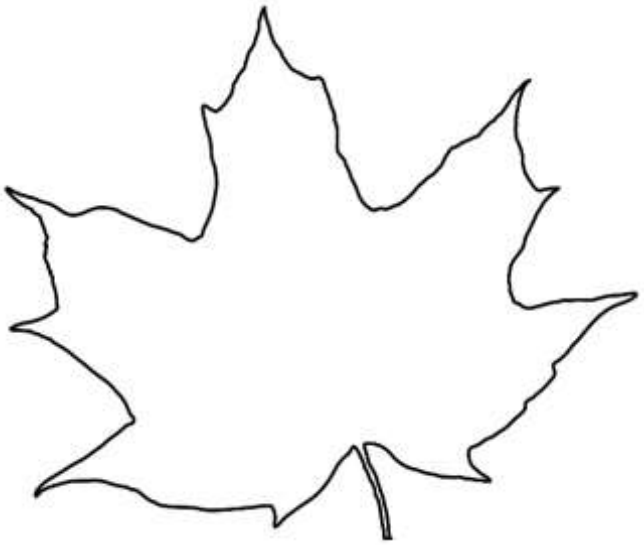
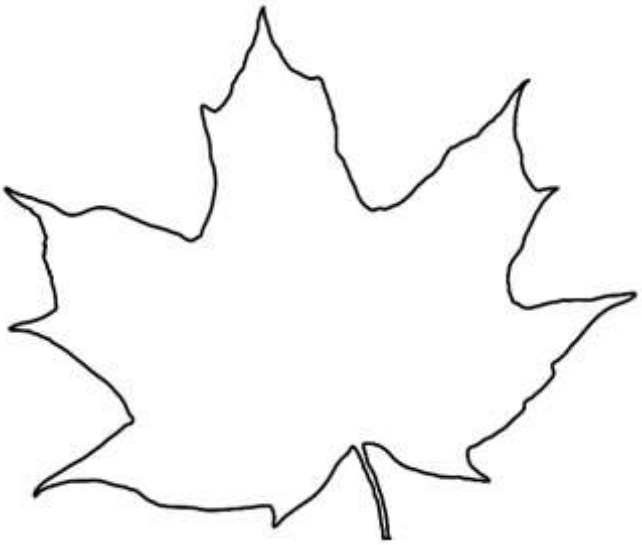
My Class's Tree of Strength

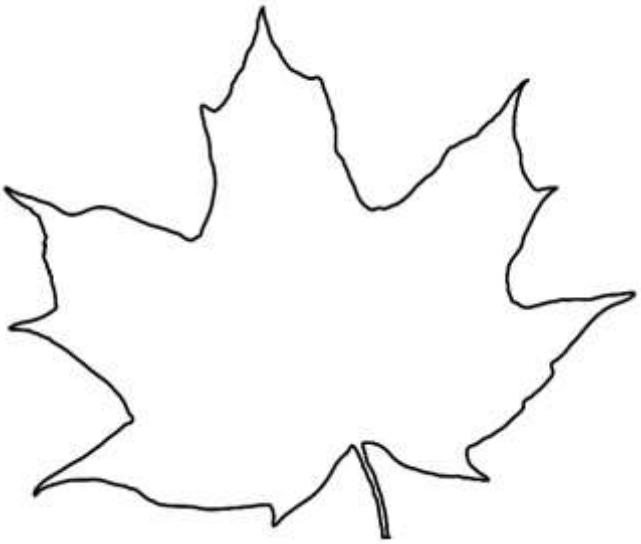
It probably seems like a long time ago since you were with all your friends, classmates and teachers. We hope that it will not be too long until you are all back together again. In the meantime, this activity is about thinking of your classmates and their strengths.

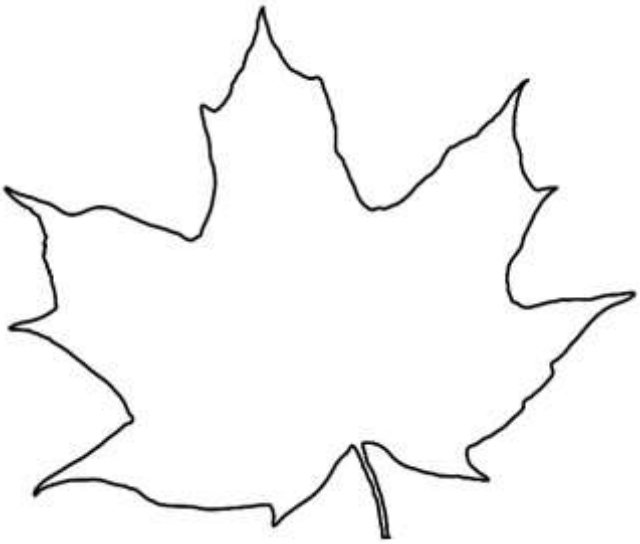
On each leaf below, write the name of a classmate, teacher or teaching assistant and write underneath what you miss about them or what you like about them or what their strengths are (what they are good at). Try to think of something positive for as many of your classmates and teachers as you can.

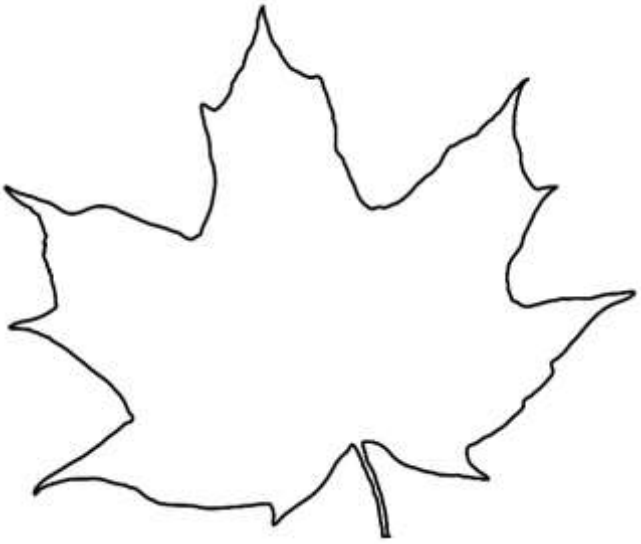
Don't forget about yourself, what do you like about you, what are you good at, what are you proud of?

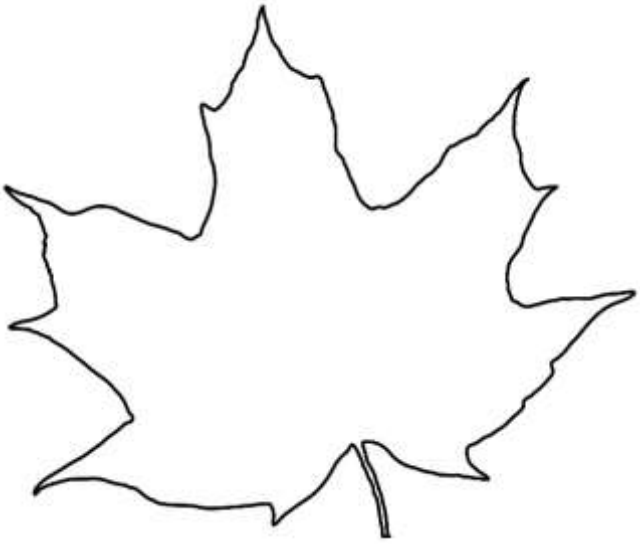
Once you have filled in some leaves, perhaps you could colour them or decorate them to make them colourful!


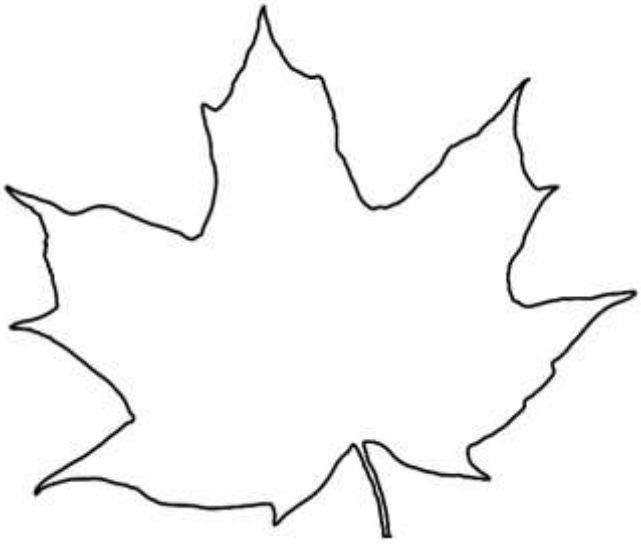


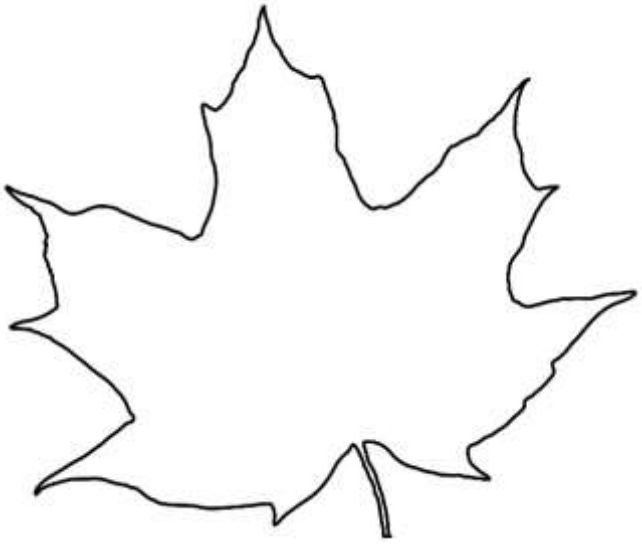


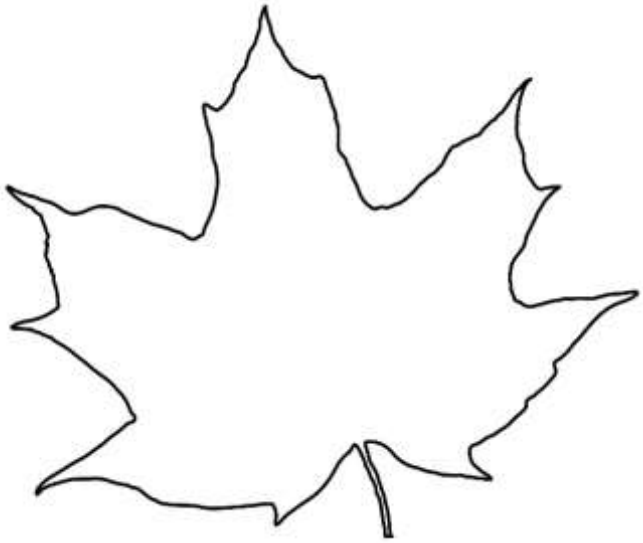


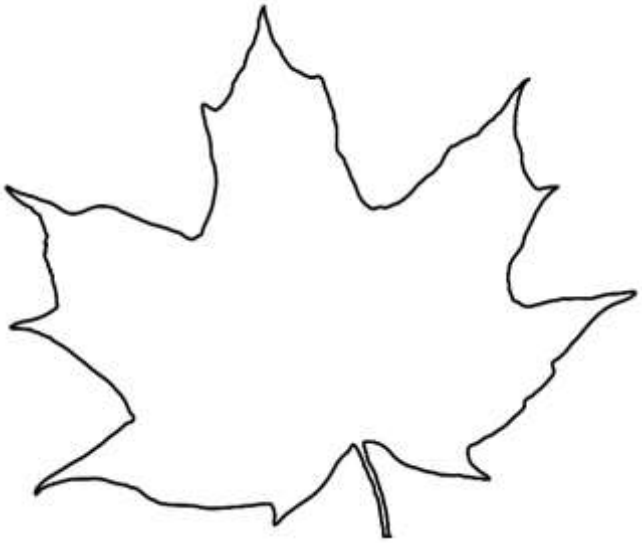


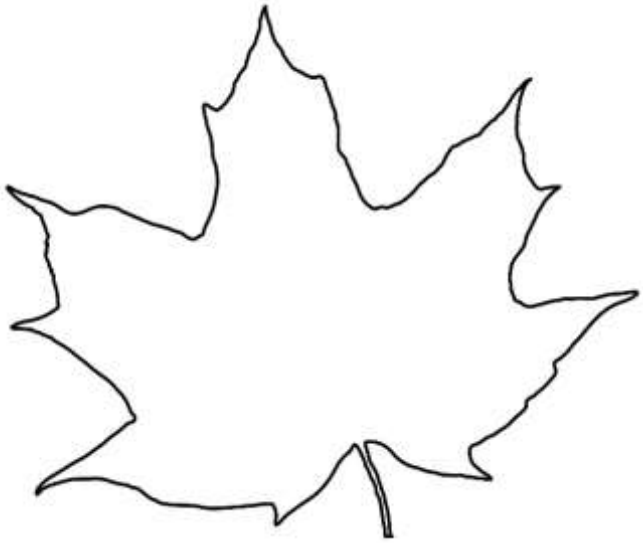


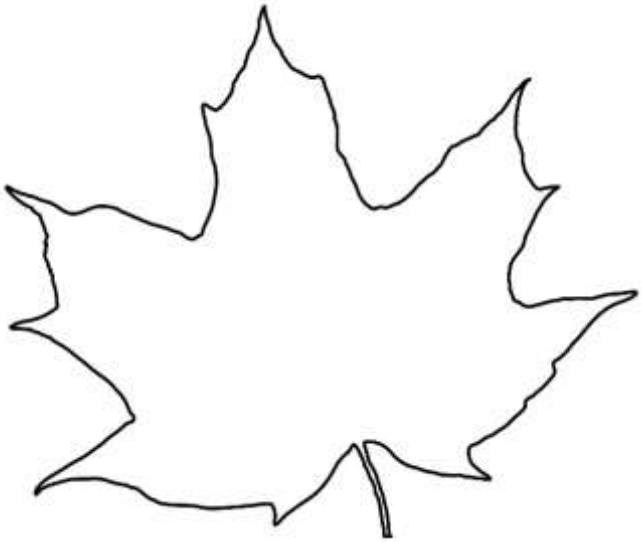












Send a copy of your leaves to your class teacher and she will gather them together to make a collage or even a display if we can get back to school.
