

Lesson 10: Mummification and Afterlife

Today is your last double-paged, spread activity. Again it says on our blog, make sure your work is neat, creative and that you keep it safe to bring back into school when you return – think about your information and layout!

Activity: create an informative, factual double-page on mummification and Egyptian afterlife. Pause the video from the link below to write down facts on why aspects of mummification took place.

Add any other interesting facts you know, or can research, to your double-page about mummification and what Egyptians believed about the Afterlife.

You could include facts about: who and who wasn't mummified and why; why Egyptians kept the heart - but not the brain - and put organs in Canopic jars, what Egyptians believed they needed for the afterlife, how they got to the Afterlife, the Gods involved in the process, etc.

Think about and plan your layout, choice of fonts, colouring, size of your facts and images on your page.

Showcase your knowledge and what you have learnt.
